COAST AND STATE.

Haley, I. T., has nice men in jail, all for murder.

Hop growers are pushing the new crop into market.

There is a great deal of sickness in and about Oroville.

Local business is reaching out for business in all directions.

Bean pulling has commenced in good earnest at Lompoc.

The United States Land Office in Colfax, W. T., has been reopened.

Lumber is improving; quite a number of houses will be built there this fall and winter.

It is claimed that Baker county, O., is a better quartz district than the Wood River country.

Large quantities of white clay is being shipped daily by train from Carbuncle, Amador county.

The Enterprise states that the Third District Agricultural Society will "realize" a deficit of $260 by the fair late in Chico.

The Central Pacific Railroad warehouse at Loma, Amador county, is at present overloading with merchandise for interior trade.

The amount of sickness at Plymouth, Amador county, at present, judging from reports, is something appalling, says a correspondent of the Galt Gazette.

Elmerella District, in Plumas county, is a new mining region that is causing some excitement among the people of Indian Valley. Not only are rich quartz veins reported, but gold.

A number of tramps and vagabonds are doing Santa Rosa and vicinity, and it is an every-day occurrence for some of our citizens to be stopped and impounded by the worthless vagabonds. A chain-gang would have a wholesome effect.—Santa Rosa Democrat.

The changes in population going on in Sonoma county are rapidly transforming this region into the similitude of older settlements. So many new men are coming here with their families, attracted by the soil, the climate, and the products, that we can hardly say the better day is dawning.—Santa Rosa Republican.

The Sonoma grape-growers are just now busily engaged picking their grapes. The yield is unusually small—perhaps half a crop—caused by late spring frosts. Many are to be had at 25c per pound, and the claret is made, will bring about two dollars.

Some fancy table grapes bring $30 per ton.—Petaluma Argus.

The San Juan Times says a gentleman who came from Downsville, Maryland, informed it that he had left Downsville when it was reported Dr. Dredge had been killed, who was at the scene of the murder of James Campbell, had sent for Sheriff Fitch to go to Sierra valley for the purpose of arresting a party or parties who are implicated in the murder of Dr. Campbell. He said as much to the sheriff.

The Ashland Times says William Colwell, who shot Charles Hanna in Jacksonville, after a preliminary examination last Tuesday was held to answer before the next Grand Jury. His bonds were fixed at $1,000, but at last amounts he was still $100 short. He was remanded to the sum. Colwell, who is accused of the stabbing, is held in jail until to await the result of the wound.

The Roseburg Plaindealer says the United States Inspectors of Railroads for the Pacific coast passed through today, on their way to Oregon to San Francisco. They were accompanied as far as Myrtle Creek by Mr. Koehler, Vice President of the O. & C. road, from which place they took coaches. We understand the railroad was only partially received as far south as Myrtle Creek.

Isaac and Coates, writing on the "Varieties and Care of Grapes," notes that raisin and table grapes require rich bottom lands, size and appearance of fruit both being essential in this branch of viticulture. The best black, gravelly soil, of many parts of North America, is well suited for the production of both quality and quantity, and the heavier richer soil of the lower and middle of the valley will undoubtedly yield still larger crops and the fruit will be of a finer quality. Raisins and early table grapes are better for raisin and early table grapes for Eastern markets.

The Pineville (Ore.) News says: The rise in the price of beef has greatly added to the cost of this country, and those who have individuals in the market are getting a high price for the top grade.

Many cattle, two years old and up, were sold last winter and spring for $18 to $20 per head, while to-day the same would bring $30 to $35. The price of the smaller head of cattle have been driven away from one section this summer, the average price paid being $20, amounting in the aggregate to $100,000, which has been distributed among the stock men of Oregon and Idaho.

A small slide occurred in the central warehouse of the Buckley Mills Saturday morning, carrying out a portion of the end wall of the warehouse, and depositing a score or two of tons sacks of wheat on the platform. A number of grain bags piled high on the warehouse roof, owing to a jar of passing trains some of the lowest sacks had burst open. The escape of the grain from these torn sacks destroyed the stability of the pile, and the weight of the upper sacks caused a great lateral pressure. A portion of the wall gave way, and the pressure was and was forced outward. The wall gave way at its base, swinging outward over the platform like a hanging shutter. [Marysville Appeal.]

The Luck Observatory—Concerning the Luck Observatory the San Jose Times says: The observatory is situated on the lowest of the peaks of the mountain, at an elevation of 4,200 feet above sea level. We have no record of any observations made since the $14,000 which Captain Fraser has paid out this year has been wisely expended. Almost one-half of the observatory proper is now being refitted. When complete it will be the largest in the world, with the center of 60 feet, and is 40 feet wide. At one end of this structure stands a dome 30 feet in diameter at the base and 40 feet high, in which is mounted a five inch reflector telescope. This instrument, twice as large as any ever made in the State, and is capable of a power of 1,200 diameter. It can move the moon, which is almost 240,000 miles away, to appear as though it were 200 miles distant. The entire cost of erecting the building has been used to build a clock and workshop, a dormitory and waiting room, and a reception room for visitors. The excavation for the great dome is 80 feet in diameter, and the walls are 10 feet thick, and the floor is 12 inches thick. This is the largest refractor in the world, the next in order being the Vienna refractor, 27 inches, the telescope at the Naval Observatory at Washington, 23 inches, the Newhall instrument, 22 inches, the refractor at Princeton, 23 inches, and the recently erected refractor at the Hale Observatory, Princeton, 23 inches. The focal length necessary for the Luck telescope cannot be determined until the object glass is made. There is now impossible to build the dome for the instrument, for its length may be anywhere from 40 to 60 feet. Two small structures adjoining the main building are already supplied with apparatus indispensable to the astronomer.

BETTER THAN NEVER.

Better early than late is the medical ad when the liver is diseased, the stomach enfeebled or the bowels constipated. The descriptions in duty of three organs should be referred to for further possible discipline.

The descriptions of the three organs into a chaotic condition by the disorder of one or more. Finally refer to effect through the use of the Bitters, which any amount of overeating takes in the latter stages of disease.

While there is the best foundation for the allegation that the Bitters is an excellent remedy for the various types of diseases for which it is recommended, still greater ground for urging its early use as a preventive. Malaria disease, indigestion and destruction of the bowel should especially be treated in their first stage.

Isaac and Coates, writing on the "Varieties and Care of Grapes," notes that raisin and table grapes require rich bottom lands, size and appearance of fruit both being essential in this branch of viticulture. The best black, gravelly soil, of many parts of North America, is well suited for the production of both quality and quantity, and the heavier richer soil of the lower and middle of the valley will undoubtedly yield still larger crops and the fruit will be of a finer quality. Raisins and early table grapes are better for raisin and early table grapes for Eastern markets.
